Telescope Stands—The Rifleman or Portable Table Stand

We believe we have succeeded in devising a Telescope that is as near perfect as it is possible to make such a thing.

An Ideal Telescope Stand should be rigid, adjustable, vertically and laterally with one hand, compact on the firing point, portable with the scope in position, ever ready, foldable, suitable for any size telescope.

A Stand which lacks any one of these attributes is a nuisance to the shooting man who attends open Meetings.

The Telescope Stand, as illustrated, has a perfect fitting ball joint which makes it rigid, yet easy to adjust. Two thick screws fasten the stem in the guides. It can be placed on the Shooter's left out of the way of his elbow. No firing point is too small for it. It can be instantly switched on to the Target. folds into 10½ inches, and takes any ordinary sporting telescope.

PRICE, post free, 15/-

The Telescope shown on the Stand is our "100 Yards Spotter" No. P.216, Price £4 15s.
